Pat Tilghman Chosen As Chants Favorite Pertelote

Everyone likes for a last impression to be a good one. For this reason CHANTICLEER offers in this, his last edition of the current school year, a parting glimpse of the finest things to appear in the paper during the year -- CHANTICLEER'S Pertelotes.

The difficulty encountered by the staff in selecting a single girl to be selected as "Pertelote of the Year" can be appreciated by feasting one's peepers on the lovelies ranged about this page and reading counter-clockwise are pictured Janis Blanton, Hazel Elliott, Marjorie Johnson, Linda Tarte, Delaine Utley, and Carol Willoughby.

CHANTICLEER is particularly boastful and proud of the young lass pictured so prominently in the center of the page. MISS PATRICIA TILGHMAN, very first of the Pertelotes in Chan't's envied convey, has been chosen by her classmates to typify all the grace and loveliness that has come to be associated with the distinction of being named "Pertelote." CHANTICLEER considers himself quite lucky on realization that "Pat" will be back at Coastal as a sophomore next year.

Of Cabbages And Kings

On a newspaper staff there are a group of people who use their imagination and ingenuity to put together a newspaper that should be interesting reading to all people concerned. There is the Editor in chief, a meat head who takes all the blame and all the credit. There is the assistant editor who catches it from the "big boy" editor. Then there are features editors, news editors, and sports editors that do the actual writing. The biggest job has yet to be mentioned—that of the business manager.

This job is nothing but pure hard work. The Business manager receives no pay for his job, and very little credit; but without him the paper would fall flat on its face.

The business manager's job is to finance the paper and its functions. This is no easy task considering that each paper costs well over one hundred dollars and partys nearly that much.

Dale Floyd has served as business manager of the Chanticleer staff this year. He has done a magnificent job. Not once did he requisition money from the student council to help meet Chanticleer expenses. Every student in this school can thank Dale Floyd for every issue of Chanticleer. "Dale, the student body thanks you, Chanticleer staff thanks you, and I thank you."

Now I can say thanks to every one of the staff for making the first volume of Chanticleer a successful one. Most of all I thank our advisor Mr. C. F. Maddox who unmercifully wrecked have on so many of Chanticleers gramatical and blank bland errors.

Halsey Taylor

I
The Civil Rights Bill, now pending passage by the Senate, will have a great deal to do with the future of this nation...if it is passed. To begin with, passage of such a bill would be clearly in violation of the CONSTITUTION. The first violation that we may so clearly see is that title of the bill which amounts to virtual involuntary servitude. I refer to the Public Accommodations title of the bill. To get a clear explanation of this, take for example a massage salon in a hotel. The operator of this salon may object to serving certain persons, but under this law, the operator would be forced to do so. This, I say, is involuntary servitude.

Another violation of the CONSTITUTION is the title labeled the Fair Work Practices. This provision tells a man who he can hire, fire, promote, or demote. Both of these provisions are clearly invasions on the cherished rights of the individual.

Another provision of this despicable bill is that which gives to the President the power to cut off federal funds from those states practicing segregation. Not only does this place too much authority in the hands of the President, but it is shocking to think that after sending our taxes to Washington, we can only get that money back by performing the dictates of the Federal government.

Only a few of the more dangerous provisions have been mentioned here, although the bill in its entirety is dangerous to this country's welfare. If this bill or any similar bill passes Congress, and becomes law, then to refer to the U.S. as the "Bastion of Freedom" would be fallacious.

In the words of Senator J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, "No bil is a civil rights bill if it takes power from one group and gives it arbitrarily to another."

Here's cute little item that I picked up today: Author Pearl Buck has founded an organization to raise funds for children sired by American servicemen overseas. The name of the organization if of course, Fathers Anonymous. Miss Buck says that the Pentagon has been no help at all. She quoted the military attitude: "How could our boys do such a thing when they were playing volleyball all the time?"

Believe it or not one of these people is Halsey Taylor. He requested that his identity be withheld from these pages but he did request an invitation to the CHANTICLEER party where he would reveal his identity.

BECAUSE WE COULDN'T FIND
HIS PICTURE WE DEDICATE

FINE JOB HE DID THIS PAST YEAR AS CARETAKER.

Doctor Mavillicent

Dear Dr. M.,

I have been dating a boy for 5 years and he has never given me any kind of gift until just recently. He gave me a cultured pearl for my birthday. I am tickled to death to receive such a nice gift, but I cannot help wondering if it is a real cultured pearl because he has always been such a miser. How can I tell if it is a real cultured pearl?

Pearl

Dear Pearl,

The only way to tell for sure is to take the pearl out to supper with you one night, and if it slurps its soup you will know that it is not cultured.

Dear Dr. M.,

I have always been considered a rather charming and unusually nice looking girl. All my features are flawless, but I do have one drawback - my toes! My toes are unsightly and I am embarrassed to take my shoes off in front of anybody. People have always laughed at me, especially at the clubhouse whenever I would take a shower. Please tell me what to do!

Irma Glumertz

Dear Irma,

Don't be the terror of the shower room. Don't let your friends leer! Act now! Cut off those nasty toes and have done with it. Then with the Jiffy Embalming Kit sold by Mr. Jerry Dukes, bottle those severed members and avenge those heartless taunts. Now you can enjoy watching their stomachs turn. You will cause a thousand laughs at every party.

Dear Dr. M.,

My cousin Winslow came to visit us three years ago, and he has not left yet. I am not really sure what his motives are since he no longer talks to my wife or me, but merely sits in the corner and stares blankly as the wall. I really do not mind his being around since his chair covers a nasty hole in the rug, but he could talk to us at least.

Herbert

Dear Herbert,

It seems quite possible that your cousin Winslow is dead. Why not investigate this possibility? Such instances are indeed rare, but Winslow impresses me as a unique sort, himself. If this is indeed the case, I would suggest you take some positive action immediately.

Dear Dr. M.,

Every time I amble down the corridors of Coastal, I am very ferociously pounced upon by some unknown creature. This creature acts like Snoopy of "Peanuts" by trying to sneakily pounce upon me, but he looks like a modified Yogi Bear with a vampire face, like in MAD magazine. Sometimes it is screaming out French platitudes, and other times it is simply screeching "POUNCE!!!!"

What in the world is it?

Dee Utley

Dear Miss Utley,
Bennett Scott!!!

Dear Dr. M.,

I am looking for someone with a very neat handwriting that is very legible. I have a few odd jobs for such a person to do. Do you think you could suggest anyone with these qualifications. I must be very strict about neatness and legibility!!!!

Clem Frost

Dear Mr. Frost,

I know just the person for you to hire. Mr. Zeb Thomas.

Garnet And Blacks' Arrive

Ned Plunkett, Editor of the Garnet and Black at Coastal Carolina, announced yesterday that the Garnet and Black's had arrived.

They will be distributed some time this week. The Garnet and Black's, published in Columbia, will be distributed to the students and a "signing" party will be held Thursday afternoon at Coastal Carolina.

Ned and Burt Strickland, business managers, sneaked a look at the samples sent from Columbia and say they are excellent. Congratulations to Ned and his staff for a fine job.

The center's edition of the Garnet and Black is published in Columbia by the Carolina Garnet and Black. The copy and pictures are the combined effort of the five centers.

Utley And Cummings Take Honors At May Day Festivities

The smell of roses, the quiet murmur of an audience before the show, the chilly breeze of a May night carrying soft musical notes greeted the May Court attendants as they stepped from their cars to form the processional for the first annual May Court at Coastal Carolina.

Bernice Strickland in a soft petal pink dress was followed by Suzanna Dunbar in gleaming gold array. Meredith Carter with her whisper-of-blue gown preceded the Maid of Honor, Jane Jordan, who wore icy turquoise. Queen Trisha Cummings attired in regal white brocade carrying her roses with grace and dignity mounted the south steps to be crowned by President Richard Hucks, and seated on the first May Court throne. Stephen Singleton was crown bearer and the youngest member of the court.

After the coronation James Branham, Professor of History, gave an effective reading, "Corinna's Going A'Maying." For further entertainment of the Queen and her court, a May Pole Dance was performed by unrecognizable members of the Coastal Student Body. At the end of the amusement, Mr. E. M. Singleton, Resident Director, gave awards to the athletes of the year, the cheerleaders, the Student Council Officers, the most outstanding student Queen Trisha Cummings, the most scholastic sophomores and freshmen and the first William Kimble Scholarship to De Utley. The Student Council officers of the next school term were announced to the audience by out-going President Richard Hucks. Bennett James, the new President, gave a short speech and with the benediction having been pronounced by Bill Thomas, President of Circle K, the audience dispersed.

After a hurried change, the May Court was honored at a dance at the Conway National Guard

Armory. The seats of honor were also filled by parents, faculty, dignitaries from Carolina. The dance floor was crowded practically every number and the refreshments came from a seemingly never-ending source.

At one o'clock the crowd was reduced with only a few "older" people staying, and those remaining were wondering how the "younger" ones could still be dancing. By two o'clock the dance was stopped by the remaining faculty member and the students were asked to leave. All left still laughing, with joyful hearts and promising to make next year's court even better if possible.

The candles were blown out, the tables and chairs were askew, the band stand was empty, the dance floor was covered with broken balloons and crushed napkins, cups, plates, and only the memory of an enchanted evening in May at Coastal Carolina remained.

To Head 1964

Coastal Council

With a shake of his head and a wide grin, Bennett James steps up to take the big responsibility of Student Council President for the year 1964-65. Bennett hails from Aynor, South Carolina. He is a 1963 honor graduate of Aynor High School. These are the words of our President, "I will make no great promises ... I will only say that I intend to do the job to the best of my ability."

Backing up our worthy President will be James Pate. Miss Joan Williams is the Council's new secretary. Our new treasurer is Miss Donna Godbold.

Congratulations friends! We're all proud of you. Do your stuff!

Looking Back

It has been another banner year for sports. Here at Coastal Carolina, we discovered what a lot of people already knew-- that Dick Singleton was one heck of a coach. He took on the added responsibility of coaching the basketball and baseball teams with no complaints. Both his teams led the league during the regular season. He would have brought the badketball trophy back to the center for the first time but the breaks weren't with the team those two days. Even though this season was not the complete success it might have been, we know that next year, along with a victory over Howard's Cubs, we will see even better teams at Coastal.

We also saw this part season a fine year for the Conway High basketball team. Was sorry to find out that their fine coach, Tom Eaddy, will bow out of this capacity next year and devote more time to administrative duties.

They will surely miss him next year and will have to go a long way in getting a capable replacement.

While we are on the subject of successful basketball coaches let us not forget two from the campus in Columbia - Chuck Noe and Frank McQuire. Mr. Noe is no longer with us but his successor is. I am sure that Coach McQuire will work hard with his raw talent from the frosh squad of this and future years to mold us a varsity that will challenge Duke and Davidson for Southern honors and also humiliate the round-ballers from the Cow College.

By The Way

Along with everyone else, I think that Willie (Say Hey) Mays will bat .400 this year and hit around 55 homers --- Looks like Hill Rise will romp over the little fella (Northern Dancer) in the Preakness --- This will be little consolation for Shoemaker but little is better than none --- And guess which sport U S C won in its first conference championship? Golf! They tied with Maryland this year. Bet the Yankees wish they had "Moose" Skowron back instead of the lemon, Stan Williams ---- I read that Freddie Lorenzen will try Indianapolis next. They better watch out ----

That will have to do it for this year, readers. I have enjoyed writing this column for such fine readers as you.

BOBBY THIME in action as Coastal Carolina's topped ranked pitcher.

Coastal Tops

Beauford, Williams, Winning Pitcher

Coastal Carolina's baseball team made the journey to Beaufort last weekend and came back with an 11 to 4 victory over the Beaufort team. Coastal batsmen zeroed in on the Beaufort pitching for 15 hits, several of them for extra bases. Among those hitting the long ball were E. H. Elliot, Virgil Autry, and Junior Barnhill. E. H. went 4 for 4 and raised his batting average to .500 for the spring campaign.

While the batters were having a good time, the pitcher for the Coastal squad, Seth Williams, performed brilliantly also. He limited Beaufort to 5 hits, 4 runs, and struck out 12 batters in going the whole route by himself.

The victory gave Coastal a 2 win, 1 loss record for the year. They have a game with Florence on the 15th.
